ABOUT WBNUJS

WBNUJS was established under the National University of Juridical Sciences Act of 1999, and it officially started functioning in 2000. It was set up to promote legal education and research in India. The university boasts a highly qualified and experienced faculty, many of whom are leading experts in their respective fields of law. Their expertise contributes significantly to the quality of legal education provided at NUJS.

While it covers various fields of law, very recently, it became the first National Law University in India to offer Master and Doctoral degrees in Forensic Sciences. This year it took one more historical step forward as it has started B.Sc. LL.B. (Hons.) in Criminology and Forensic Science as the first course of its kind in India.

The NUJS campus is equipped with state-of-the-art facilities, including modern classrooms, a well-stocked library, research centres, forensic science laboratories, and moot courtrooms. These facilities enhance the learning experience for students. The university encourages research in various legal areas. It has several research centres and institutes dedicated to specific branches of law as well as Forensic Science studies. The university also publishes various journals and publications, contributing to legal scholarship.

NUJS collaborates with various national and international institutions to facilitate academic exchange, research, and collaboration. This university stands as a beacon of legal education and research in India, producing skilled professionals who are well-equipped to excel in the legal profession, academia, and public service and to assist the Criminal Justice System.

ABOUT SCHOOL OF FORENSIC SCIENCES

The School of Forensic Sciences (SFS) at NUJS is an integral part of WBNUJS, Kolkata, focusing on the intersection of law and forensic sciences. The school is dedicated for its comprehensive and interdisciplinary approach towards understanding, teaching, and applying forensic science within the framework of legal systems through programmes offered i.e., M.Sc. Forensic Science and Ph.D. in Forensic Science.

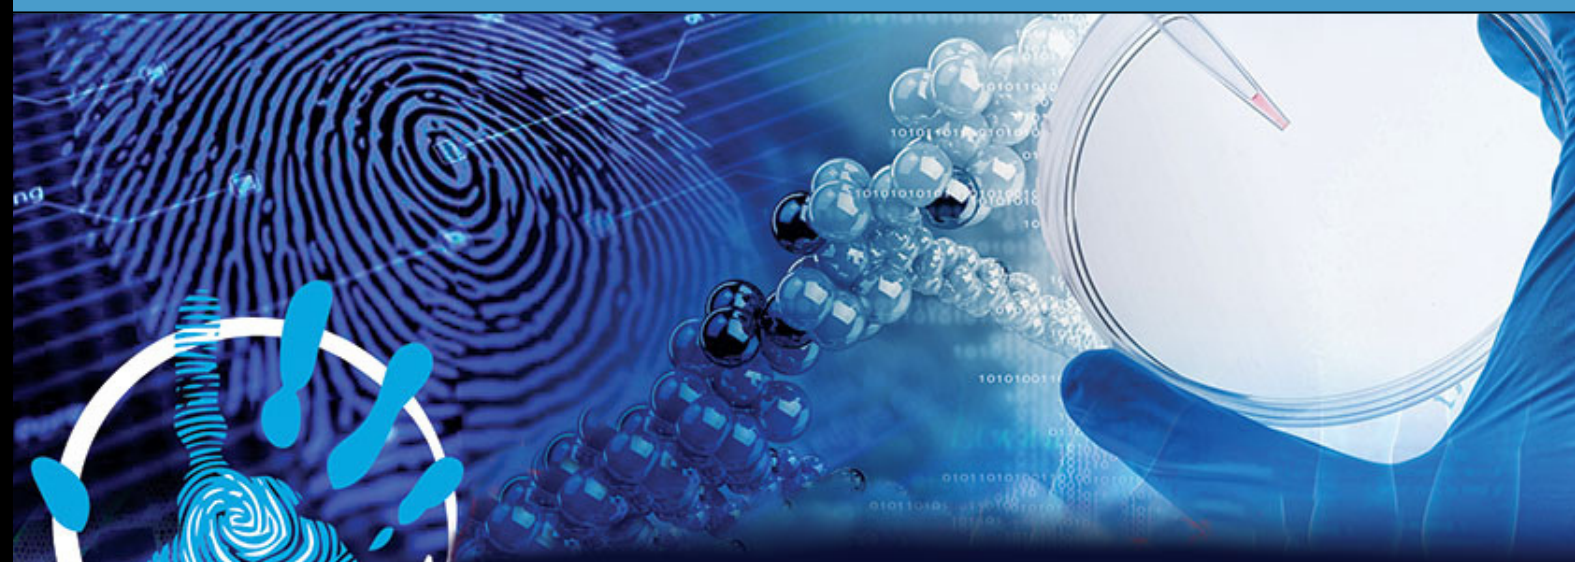

The faculty members at the School of Forensic Science possess expertise and experience in their respective fields, which includes but not limited to forensic biology, chemistry, toxicology, anthropology, ballistics, digital forensics, and more. They bring a wealth of knowledge and practical experience to the classroom. The school collaborates with other academic, forensic and research organizations and institutions to provide practical and diverse exposure to the students and scholars across the country. These collaborations can lead to joint research projects, exchange programs, and conferences, which enrich the learning experience.

ABOUT CENTRE FOR STUDIES & RESEARCH IN FORENSIC SCIENCES

The Centre for Studies and Research in Forensic Sciences (CSRFS) in WBNUJS is one of the first of its kind in India which aims to contribute to the forensic sciences fraternity in India and around the globe. The centre stands in the frontier towards the pursuit of knowledge and advancements in the field of forensic sciences. It is dedicated to fostering research, education, and innovation in the application of scientific principles to legal investigations. With state-of-the-art laboratories and a team of expert researchers, the center plays a pivotal role in developing cutting-edge forensic technologies and methodologies. The main objectives of the centre is to nurture innovation in different domains and subdomains of forensic sciences through inter-institutional and inter-organizational collaboration and cutting edge technology for the advancement of the practical implementation towards criminal justice system. Since its inception, the CSRFS organized collaborative student and faculty exchange programmes to build skills and enhance the capabilities of innovative workforce in the field of forensics. Among outstanding achievements of this centre, several publications and book chapters in internationally reputed journals and publishing houses are noteworthy. The multidisciplinary approach of CSRFS brings together professionals from various fields, including forensic sciences, law enforcement agencies and legal profession to collaborate on solving complex criminal cases. As a hub for both academic study and practical application, the Centre for Studies and Research in Forensic Sciences contributes significantly to the evolution of forensic science, aiding law enforcement agencies and the legal system in ensuring justice is served accurately and efficiently.

ABOUT THE INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Science and technology have advanced quickly in the 21st century, affecting every aspect of life. Crime and criminology are no longer seen as separate fields in the modern world; rather, it is understood that they must be examined in relation to a number of other disciplines. Political science, sociology, psychology, anthropology, economics, and other multidisciplinary fields are among them. One of the most significant recent breakthroughs towards crime prevention has been a multidisciplinary approach to criminology. This is a significant development, given that criminology aims to avoid crime occurrences in society rather than only gain a theoretical grasp of criminal behaviours. In an ever-changing world, criminology, law, and forensic science are pillars of modern society's criminal justice system. The "International Conference on Recent Trends in Criminology, Law, and Forensic Science" seeks to unite global experts, scholars, and practitioners in a shared mission to empower our criminal justice systems for the challenges of the 21st century and beyond. This conference aims to explore emerging trends and innovations within these critical fields. We endeavour to foster interdisciplinary collaboration, encouraging the cross-pollination of ideas and expertise, ultimately working towards a holistic understanding of contemporary criminal justice challenges. Our objectives encompass not only knowledge dissemination but the practical application of this knowledge to strengthen global justice systems. By equipping participants with the latest research, technologies, and best practices, we hope to create a fair, effective, and adaptable criminal justice system to address the complex, dynamic nature of crime in the 21st century.

We invite researchers, policymakers, and professionals to join us in this endeavour. Let us collectively shape the future of criminal justice, promote social justice, and build a safer, more equitable world through this conference. The "International Conference on Recent Trends in Criminology, Law, and Forensic Science" aspires to create a dynamic, informative, and inclusive environment where knowledge, innovation, and best practices intersect to advance the cause of justice.
