The educational vivacity of an institution is linked to the professional development and academic standing of its faculty members. Faculty Development Programme refers to a variety of activities aimed at assisting academicians and professors of practice in enhancing professional skills necessary for carrying out their teaching, research, or administrative responsibilities in education sector. The IILM Law School, IILM University, Gurugram has created a platform for all education leaders and academicians from India's Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) to get together and develop strategic action plans for putting the policy into practise in letter and spirit. To enhance the skills, a Faculty Development Programme on “Innovative Teaching and Learning Pedagogy in Legal studies” is being offered by IILM Law School, IILM University, Gurugram.

About the Programme

Faculty Development Programme on “Innovative Teaching and Learning Pedagogy in Legal studies” is intended to boost the teaching-learning and research skills of early career researchers and academicians, who are actively engaged with the legal techniques and within the multidisciplinary arena. The aim of the Faculty Development Programme is to present the participants with a chance to amass knowledge on contemporary developments that are happening in various specialized fields of law and social sciences.

The Faculty Development Programme helps to deepen the understanding of recent teaching tools and methodologies that are deployed by scholars within the field of legal and social science discipline. More importantly, this interactive and inclusive programme will shed light on new, tried and tested, result-driven and impact-based methods of teaching. The Faculty Development Program will reflect on the basics of legal epistemology and its various specialized areas by leading global experts within their field.

The goal of this Faculty Development Programme is to promote cutting-edge research in the multidisciplinary arena of law and to motivate young and passionate academicians to utilize it appropriately. The Faculty Development Programme will provide an opportunity for the academicians to use their teaching-learning skills to train the next generation of scholars who are well versed with the fundamental methodologies within the fundamentals of legal studies and who are willing to contribute to the development of legal studies globally.
