About the Conclave

The West Bengal National University of Juridical Sciences (WBNUJS) proudly announces "Radha Binod Pal and Quest for Justice: Historical Perspectives and Contemporary Implications"

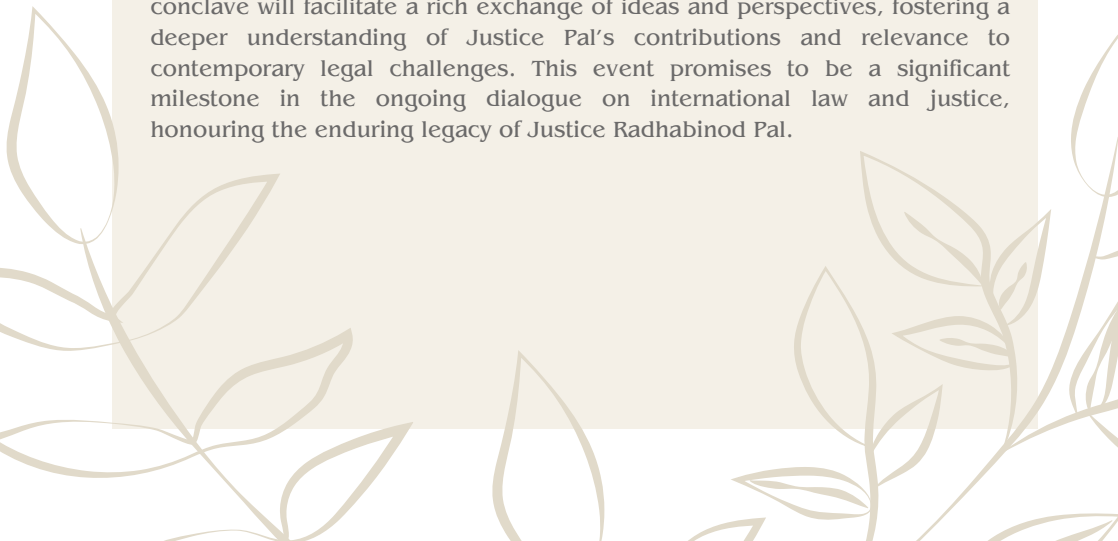

This conclave aims to explore and critically examine the profound influence of Justice Pal's jurisprudence on the development of international law, with a particular focus on his dissenting opinion at the Tokyo Trials and its implications for contemporary legal thought. Justice Radhabinod Pal's dissenting opinion at the International Military Tribunal for the Far East (Tokyo Trials) remains one of the most compelling critiques of international criminal justice. Justice Pal contended that the trials were a manifestation of Victor's justice, questioning the legitimacy and impartiality of the proceedings. He argued that the charges of crimes against peace and crimes against humanity were applied retroactively and selectively, undermining the fundamental principle of legality (nullum crimen sine lege). Pal's dissent highlighted the necessity for a consistent and unbiased application of international law, advocating for a legal framework that could transcend political interests and uphold international criminal justice. His dissent challenged the prevailing legal orthodoxy and laid the groundwork for critical discourse on the nature and purpose of international criminal law.

Critical theory in jurisprudence offers a vital lens through which the structures, practices, and underlying assumptions of international criminal law can be interrogated and often facilitates a more nuanced understanding of justice and accountability in the global context by challenging traditional narratives and exposing power dynamics. It underscores the importance of historical context, cultural perspectives, and socio-political influences in shaping legal norms and practices. In international criminal law, the theory encourages a re-examination of established doctrines, advocating for more equitable and inclusive approaches to justice that resonate with the diverse experiences of global communities. Justice Radhabinod Pal's contributions to the critical theory of jurisprudence in international criminal law are profound and enduring. His dissenting opinion at the Tokyo Trials is a seminal critique of the established legal norms, highlighting the inherent bias and power imbalance within the international legal system. Through his rigorous critique, Pal advanced a more equitable and inclusive vision of international criminal jurisprudence, emphasising the need for a legal framework that genuinely reflects the diverse realities and perspectives of the global community.

Justice Radhabinod Pal's perspectives resonate strongly with Third World Approaches to International Law (TWAIL) ideology. TWAIL critiques the imperialist, colonialist and neo-colonialist underpinnings of international law, advocating for a more inclusive and representative legal system that addresses the historical injustices and ongoing marginalisation of the Global South. Pal's insistence on impartiality and his critique of Victor's justice align with TWAIL's call for a restructured international legal order that genuinely reflects the interests and voices of developing nations. His work prefigures many of TWAIL's core tenets, emphasising the need for international law to be a tool of emancipation rather than domination.

The legacy of Justice Radhabinod Pal continues to influence modern international criminal law, challenging practitioners and scholars to reflect on issues of fairness, impartiality, and the enduring effects of colonialism. His dissent at the Tokyo Trials serves as a crucial reminder of the potential for international law to be wielded as an instrument of global justice rather than power. By examining Pal's impact, this conclave aims to inspire a reinvigoration of the principles of equity and justice in international criminal law. It is hoped that the discussions and insights generated will contribute to the evolution of a more just and inclusive international legal system.

This International Conclave "Radha Binod Pal and Quest for Justice: Historical Perspectives and Contemporary Implications", is organised by Chair on Justice Dr. Radha Binod Pal, sponsored by Govt. of West Bengal. WBNUJS, aspires it to be a pioneering event in international law scholarship. By bringing together a diverse array of scholars and practitioners, the conclave will facilitate a rich exchange of ideas and perspectives, fostering a deeper understanding of Justice Pal's contributions and relevance to contemporary legal challenges. This event promises to be a significant milestone in the ongoing dialogue on international law and justice, honouring the enduring legacy of Justice Radhabinod Pal.
