ABOUT THE BOOK

Constitution, Human Rights, and International Law: Navigating Contemporary Global Conflicts is the inaugural edited volume of the prestigious Six-Book Series jointly undertaken by Juris Cognita Publications and the School of Law and Legal Affairs, Noida International University. This book seeks to critically examine the evolving interplay between constitutional governance, international legal frameworks, and human rights protections in the context of modern global conflicts.

In an era marked by armed conflicts, geopolitical instability, humanitarian crises, digital warfare, mass displacement, and challenges to democratic institutions, constitutional values and international legal norms face unprecedented stress. This volume brings together scholarly contributions that explore how constitutions, international human rights instruments, and international humanitarian law respond to, and are reshaped by these contemporary challenges.

The book adopts a multidisciplinary and comparative approach, offering insightful analyses on issues such as the erosion of constitutionalism during emergencies, protection of human rights in conflict zones, accountability for international crimes, the role of international institutions, and the impact of global conflicts on sovereignty and the rule of law. By integrating doctrinal analysis with contemporary case studies, the volume bridges theory and practice in global legal discourse.

Designed for academicians, researchers, legal practitioners, policymakers, and students, this edited work aims to contribute meaningfully to contemporary legal scholarship while fostering informed dialogue on strengthening legal mechanisms for peace, justice, and human dignity in an increasingly conflict-ridden world.
