About Vedseadus Legal

VEDSEADUS LEGAL is an organization founded in 2023 with a steadfast commitment to making justice accessible, equitable, and inclusive. True to its name, VED signifies sacred knowledge, while SEADUS—derived from the Estonian language—means pious law. These principles guide our mission to uphold justice through legal awareness, education, and empowerment. At Vedseadus Legal, our core objective is to bridge two vital gaps — the gap between law and society, particularly for marginalized communities, and the gap between theoretical understanding and practical legal application. We aim to create a dynamic ecosystem where law is not merely studied but experienced, understood, and utilized as a tool for social transformation.

About the Conference

Crime is not merely a violation of law; it is a social phenomenon deeply embedded in the structures, values, and transformations of society. Rapid technological advancements, globalization, economic inequalities, and shifting social norms have significantly altered the nature, methods, and impact of crime. Alongside emerging forms of criminality, conventional crimes continue to persist, often adapting to modern contexts. This National Conference on “Crime and Society” aims to provide an interdisciplinary platform for scholars, legal professionals, researchers, practitioners, and students to critically examine the dynamic relationship between crime and society. The conference seeks to explore how crime influences social order, governance, human rights, and public trust, while also assessing the adequacy of existing legal and institutional responses.

Objectives of the Conference

- To analyse the evolving nature of crime in contemporary society
- To examine the social, economic, and technological factors influencing criminal behaviour
- To assess the impact of crime on individuals, communities, and institutions
- To critically evaluate legal, policy, and criminological responses to crime
