OUR PAST INITIATIVES

- 1st NLUJ-MAP Essay Writing Competition on Gender and Law

This initiative aimed to encourage young minds to articulate their perspectives on the equitable representation of women and address gender disparities prevalent in society, and foster critical discussions on the intersection of gender, law. This encouraged the exploration of how legal frameworks impact diverse identities and marginalized communities through the analysis of the interplay of gender with social factor

- Second Innings Movement

The Centre for Gender Studies collaborated with the National Commission for Women to organise a career counselling programme for homemakers under the Second Innings Movement. The initiative aimed to support homemakers who wished to begin or resume professional or entrepreneurial pursuits, by helping local women entrepreneurs showcase their products and home businesses, thereby encouraging their financial independence.

- Workshop on Senior Citizens in Collaboration with the Ministry of Social Justice

The Centre in collaboration with National Institute of Social Defence under the Ministry of Social Justice & Empowerment, Government of India organised a workshop on the Maintenance and Welfare of Parents and Senior Citizens Act, 2007 with the aim of bridging legislative intent of the act with practical implementation. The workshop witnessed the presence of Anuradha Advani (Director of Anubhodh Vruddhajan Kutir Sanstha) and esteemed speakers delivering insights on constitutional protections and combating elder abuse.

- PoSH Workshop

On April 5, 2024, the Centre for Gender Studies conducted two Prevention of Sexual Harassment (PoSH) initiatives. In collaboration with Team Himmat, a student initiative from WBNUJS, Kolkata led by a survivor of sexual harassment and active in supporting survivors and providing training on ICC processes, a workshop featuring Megha Rana Ray, Esha Shekhar, Veena Gowda, and Aparmita Pratap addressed the definition and scope of sexual harassment, complaint mechanisms, confidentiality, mental health considerations, and recent updates in PoSH guidelines, with the aim of enhancing awareness, promoting safe practices, and reinforcing institutional accountability. On the same day, the Centre also organised a PoSH capacity building workshop for university faculty and officials led by Prof. Ritu Gupta from NLU Delhi, who explained the legal framework of PoSH, the duties of Internal Complaints Committee members, and the importance of preventive measures and empathetic redressal within institutions.

- Seminars and Training Programmes

The Centre organised several academic initiatives focused on gender and legal issues. A National Seminar titled “Revisiting the Nexus between Women’s Right’s, Patriarchy and Legal Issues” was held on 27th and 28th January, 2018. Earlier, a National Seminar on “Capacity Building among Women in India: Entrepreneurship & Estate”, sponsored by the National Commission for Women (NCW), was organised on 2nd and 3rd October, 2015. The Centre also organised a National Seminar on the theme “Forthcoming Feminisms: Gender Activism in Law, Literature & Society” on 8 and 9 February, 2014. In addition, a training programme was organised in collaboration with Lawyers Collective, New Delhi in 2014.

- AROHA: Panel Discussion Series

The Centre for Policy and Research in International Law, in collaboration with the Centre for Gender Studies, organized the AROHA panel discussion series focusing on gender justice and social inclusion. One session examined gender and sexual violence in armed conflict, featuring Ms. Sweta Singh, Kalyani Jayasekera, Asst. Prof. Rudra Chandra, and Ms. Varsha Singh, who discussed integrating gender perspectives in peacebuilding, strengthening international humanitarian law protections, and ensuring accountability for violence against women. The Centre also conducted a session on ‘The Non- Binary in the Gender Spectrum’.

A second event, held virtually on 22 January 2023, addressed acid attacks in India, focusing on the legal, social, and psychological dimensions of acid-based violence and the need for stronger prevention and survivor support. The series also included a discussion with Nivedita Menon on marriage from a feminist perspective, and a panel featuring Mihir Samson and Muskan Tibrewala on LGBTQIA+ representation in courts and the need for a more inclusive legal system.

- Gender Sensitisation Workshops in Schools

The Centre has conducted a series of gender sensitisation workshops for school students and faculty in Jodhpur with the aim of fostering awareness, critical reflection and empathy. The sessions covered gender roles, equality and stereotypes through interactive activities, storytelling and legal awareness quizzes on laws like POCSO Act. The sessions have aimed to encourage open discussion on gender, inclusivity and discrimination.

- “PUKAR” - Theatrical play in collaboration with Akanksha Sansthan

The Centre, along with the Cultural Committee organized a stage performance of the socially significant play “Pukar” performed by Akanksha Sansthan, Jodhpur on November 6, 2025. The performance aimed to initiate meaningful dialogue on sexual violence, emotional trauma, and the social stigma faced by rape survivors, bringing attention to the deep-rooted patriarchal attitudes that continue to silence survivors and normalize victim-blaming.

- Women’s Day Celebration

The Centre, in collaboration with the Legal Aid and Awareness Committee, organised a Women’s Day celebration at the University. Women from Surpura village and families of students from PM Shri Kendriya Vidyalaya BSF, Jodhpur were invited as special guests. The celebration saw an address on women’s leadership and the importance of gender equality and women’s empowerment across diverse fields. This event aimed to honour the contributions of women and foster a spirit of empowerment and inclusivity.

ABOUT THE EVENT

The proposed 3-Day In-Person Certificate Course on Gender, Law, and Practice is envisioned as an intensive academic and practice-oriented programme for law and liberal arts students. The course is premised on the recognition that questions of gender justice occupy an increasingly central position within constitutional interpretation, criminal law, social welfare legislation, and judicial decision-making in India. Despite significant developments in jurisprudence and legislative reform, gender-related legal issues continue to present complex challenges in interpretation, implementation, and access to justice. These challenges are further intensified when gender intersects with caste, disability, class, sexuality, and ecological contexts. The certificate course seeks to respond to this gap by offering a structured platform for critical engagement with gender-centric legal theory, statutory frameworks, and institutional practices. The programme aims to equip participants with analytical clarity, doctrinal grounding, and practical insights necessary for gender-sensitive legal practice, research, litigation, and policy engagement. The in-person format is intended to facilitate sustained dialogue, close interaction with resource persons and collaborative learning, thereby enhancing the pedagogical value of the course.

Further event details will be announced soon on our social media handles.

COURSE STRUCTURE AND SCHEDULE

The course is structured to progress from conceptual and theoretical engagement to doctrinal analysis and, finally, to practice-oriented learning. The three-day structure of the course is designed to ensure that the participants develop a strong foundational understanding of intersectionality of gender with law and various other disciplines before engaging with contemporary legal scenarios and professional practices relating to gender justice.

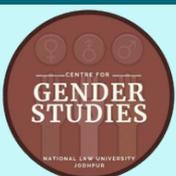

DAY ONE: INTERSECTIONALITY

The first day of the course will focus on intersectionality as a foundational analytical framework for understanding gender justice. The sessions will examine how gender interacts with caste, disability, and environmental contexts to produce layered forms of marginalisation and exclusion. Particular emphasis will be placed on the ways in which legal systems often fail to account for intersectional disadvantage, and the implications of such omissions for access to justice and substantive equality.

Tentative Sessions:

- Intersection of Gender and Caste
- Intersection of Gender and Disability
- Intersection of Gender and Environment

These sessions will explore how gender intersects with caste, disability, and environmental contexts to produce layered forms of marginalisation and exclusion.

centreforgenderstudiesnluj@gmail.com

DAY TWO: TRANSGENDER/LGBTQ+ RIGHTS AND WOMEN-CENTRIC THEMES

The second day of the course will focus on emerging legal and jurisprudential developments relating to gender in contemporary contexts. The sessions will examine transgender and LGBTQ+ rights, the gendered implications of technology, and the role of international criminal law in addressing gender-based harms. Through a reform-oriented and procedural lens, the discussions will analyse how legal institutions respond to evolving gender concerns and the extent to which existing frameworks address the realities faced by marginalised genders.

Tentative Sessions:

- Transgender and LGBTQ+ Rights: Jurisprudential Developments and Continuing Challenges
- Intersection of Gender and Technology
- Intersection of International Criminal Law and Gender

These sessions aim to critically reflect on the effectiveness of current legal mechanisms, while exploring the challenges that remain in ensuring meaningful protection, accountability, and gender justice across domestic and international legal systems.

DAY THREE: PRACTICE ORIENTED SESSIONS

The third day of the course will focus on practice-oriented engagements that bridge theoretical understandings of gender justice with their application in real-world contexts. The sessions will examine issues such as economic empowerment in the digital age, reproductive justice and bodily autonomy, and the practical realities of gender justice litigation. Through interactions with practising lawyers and professionals, participants will gain insight into the challenges, strategies, and institutional processes involved in advocating for gender justice within courts and allied legal systems. The sessions aim to equip participants with a grounded and practical perspective on how legal principles operate in everyday advocacy and adjudication.

Tentative sessions:

- Reproductive Justice, Bodily Autonomy, and State Regulation
- Perspectives of Practising Lawyers on Gender Justice Litigation
- Economic Empowerment and Digital Marketing

The course will be conducted through a combination of interactive lectures, moderated discussions, and practitioner-led sessions. Participants will be required to attend all sessions to be eligible for certification.
