ABOUT THE MOOT COURT SOCIETY

The critical question of governance is not merely what the State can do, but what it ought to do. The Moot Court Society of the School of Law, SGT University, is the student body entrusted with cultivating the culture of advocacy within the institution. It organises intra-university moot court competitions, orientation and training sessions for first-time Mooters, memorial drafting workshops and trial advocacy exercises through the academic year, and it prepares and supports the teams that represent the University at competitions across the country.

Working under the guidance of the faculty, the Society functions as the bridge between classroom instruction and courtroom practice. Its work rests on the belief that advocacy is learnt by doing - through the discipline of research, the rigour of written pleadings and the demands of oral argument before a Bench. The Society conceived and hosts LOKMANTRA as its flagship national competition, in the conviction that a moot court is among the most effective settings in which students may engage seriously with the constitutional questions of their own time.

GLIMPSES OF MOOT COURT SOCIETY COMPETITION

ABOUT THE 10TH SGTU MOOT COURT COMPETITION

The 10th SGTU Moot Court Competition is a flagship event organised by the School of Law, SGT University, designed to bring together sharp legal minds from law schools across the country to engage in critical discourse on pressing questions of constitutional governance through the lens of constitutional and comparative law. The competition offers a vibrant platform for law students to showcase their advocacy, legal reasoning, and research skills while grappling with complex legal problems concerning fundamental rights, institutional accountability, and the exercise of State power in the digital age.

In an era where governance is increasingly mediated by technology, the competition invites participants to explore the dynamic intersection of law, technology, policy, and human rights. From the integrity of public examinations to the freedoms of speech, assembly and the press, from internet shutdowns and digital censorship to the limits of police power and the autonomy of the individual, the moot problem challenges participants to think innovatively and to argue persuasively on some of the most urgent constitutional questions of our time.

The competition reflects our commitment to constitutional values and aims to nurture future legal professionals who are conscious of their role in shaping a freer, fairer, and more accountable society.

Constitutional Governance, Civil Liberties and Digital Rights

The 2026 moot proposition places before a Constitution Bench a cluster of questions arising from a compromised national entrance examination and the public protest that followed it. Participants will argue on : the constitutionality of the cancellation and re-conduct of a national public examination under Articles 14 and 21; criminal liability for unauthorised access to and circulation of confidential examination material under penal and information technology law; the validity of prohibitory orders, internet suspensions and the blocking of online content, the detention of a journalist and the seizure of journalistic equipment, and liability for excessive or unlawful use of police force. Together these issues invite argument on the permissible limits of State action in a constitutional democracy, the balance between security and liberty, and the accountability of public institutions.
